

Information regarding company exhibitions for the online poster sessions

National Institute for Fusion Science (NIFS) has held the International Toki Conference on the nuclear fusion plasma science in Toki city, Gifu prefecture since the establishment of NIFS. The 29th International Toki Conference will be held from October 27 to October 30 in 2020. In this conference, many researchers from all over the world including Japan attend to publish their research work which are the latest achievements towards the realization of nuclear fusion reactors. This year, we have a special session, “Steady State Operation of Magnetically Confined Plasmas” during the conference. (The schedule is unsettled so far.)

NIFS will hold online poster sessions and have the company exhibition booths on the web during the conference. NIFS will recruit company exhibitions.

The details are as follows:

Deadline for application : July 20 , 2020 ~ September 18, 2020.

Participation fee for company exhibitions : 10,000 yen for each company and group (including tax and the exhibition booth charge. Your company can attend all video conferences. Please pay the fee by PayPal or making a bank transfer.)

Notice : You must not sell any items in the exhibition booth. However, you may give explanations and discuss about the production and the company’s supports.
